AFTERWORD

Well and good, now to meet you. This is Alvaro.
Thank you very much for picking up my work!
This is my central book with Gerdolstein

It's been awhile, but this time, the work book covers just one couple.
I've been drawing short stories lately, so I've not been to writing stories about just one couple, but still as happy that I was able to do it.
It feels as though I've written a lot about their relationship, of the same time it feels like I haven't. Speaking of relationships, the editing for this one was actually decided upon by accident. When I was actually drawing it out, I found it difficult and when it came up in my previous works, I was surprised to find out that I haven't actually done a drawing like this one. It was difficult to draw. I've been drawing it for several years now but I still am not able to portray something very well.

It's occasionally been a personal challenge in my works, but I'm glad if you were able to enjoy the work, by even a little bit.

Also, thank you to all those who've sent me mail and answered the surveys that come with the work. Since I don't have any other place to do it, I decided to use this opportunity to thank you all from a little, I hope to express my appreciation to all my readers.

Well then I hope we meet again in my next work.

Special thanks

Thank you to my editor, those who have helped after me.
To everyone who participated in the magazine consultation and final publication.
To my family, to my younger brother who seemed to check my tone.
To my friends who've got my for stories and being excited over stuff.
To my teacher, Susan,
and to all my readers.

Thank you very much!
